What the Indianapolis Journal, says of farm mortgages in the following item is as true in Michigan as it is in Indiana. It says: "A large majority of the farm mortgages in Indiana and other Western states were given for purchase money, and most of them are paid off when they mature. No class of people in this country are paying off their debts faster than the farmer." This will make the Democrats feel worse than ever.

Suicide at Morrice.

FRANK BRIGHAM THREW A LIFE AND KILLS HIMSELF.

MORRICE, March 23.—Frank Brigham, who purchased the livery business of L. D. Goss, and moved recently from Holly, shot himself this morning, going to the barn for the purpose. He must have been in a desperate mood as an examination of the body showed that he shot himself twice in the region of the heart and then in the forehead, and the ball penetrated his brain. Poor health and despondency the supposed cause. He leaves a widow and one son.

First Michigan Cavalry.

The annual re-union of the First Michigan Cavalry Association was held in this city on Wednesday, with headquarters at the National hotel. About ninety members of the regiment, besides a large number of other veterans were present. These annual meetings are bright times for the men who fought from '61 to '65. The battles are fought over and the recollection of those stirring times brought fresh to their memory. At the business meeting held in the opera house in the afternoon it was decided to hold the next re-union at Lapeer the third Monday in March, 1891. The officers elected were: President, Orange Thomas, Lapeer; 1st Vice Pres., Maj. Watson, of Marquette; 2d Vice Pres., E. T. Weal, of Duplain; Sec. and Treas., Capt. A. E. Matthews, of Milford; executive committee: Geo. Demarest, C. Croft, Henry White and Geo. Crampton, all of Lapeer. The "boys" also voted to ask John A. Bigelow, of Oakland county, to prepare a history of the regiment to be read at the next meeting. A vote of thanks was tendered Quackenbush Post for courtesies received.

Letters of regret were read from Gen. Alger, Gov. Luce, H. C. Watkins, of Grand Rapids, Fren H. Rogers, of Detroit, and Dr. C. E. Johnson, of Grand Rapids. The camp fire in the evening at the opera house was attended by quite a large crowd. The features of the evening were singing, addresses, etc.

We give a complete list of all members present who registered.

The Blair educational bill was defeated in the Senate yesterday 37 to 31.

Several days ago the friends of L. L. L'Homedieu, freight clerk of the M. C. depot, were pained to learn that he was several hundred dollars short on his accounts. He has been taking company funds for some time and making use of them, always being able, however, to show a proper amount on hand at the end of each month. Finally the amount grew so large that he was unable to replace it. In order to give him a chance to repay the money and settle the affair he was allowed to go to Cincinnati to get the money from influential and wealthy friends. Mr. L'Homedieu comes of a good family and his downfall is a terrible blow to them. Much sympathy is expressed on all sides for his wife and family.

Just as we are ready to go to press we learn that the jury in the O'Connor inquest found a verdict of "accidental death." His friends also deny that he was under the influence of liquor the night before.

W. C. Gamble and family leave today for Washington state.

South Atlantic Rollers.

The author of "The Cruise of the Falcon" had a chance to study the effect of high waves, or rollers. It was on the shores of the island of Trinidad, which lies off the coast of Brazil about six hundred miles. The island beaches are covered with wreckage which has been carried there by winds and currents.

What struck me as remarkable was that some of this wreckage had been cast up a great distance above what I judged to be the high water mark. Far up, jammed between two rocks, I perceived a huge iron beam that must have weighed many tons.

The explanation probably is that Trinidad, like several other low lying South Atlantic islands, notably St. Helena and Fernando Noronha, is subject to that terrible phenomenon known as the rollers. Those who have witnessed this describe how on a fine, clear day, when the winds are still and the ocean smooth, of a sudden the waters in the offing are observed to become disturbed; billow after billow advances to the shore, gradually increasing in magnitude, until at last the waters are piled up in mountains far higher than the highest storm waves, that rush on to shore with fearful impetuosity, driving from their anchors any vessels they may encounter, and hurling them far up on the land, beyond the reach of the highest spring tides.

Distant hurricanes and submarine volcanic action are both suggested as the causes of this phenomenon.—Youths' Companion.

Chesaning Fire.

From The Argus.

At a little before 2 o'clock this morning our lumbering village was rudely awakened by the clanging of the fire bell and in a short time the streets were filled with excited people hurrying to the scene of conflagration for such it was fast coming to be—and on reaching the spot Pratt's shoe store was found to be all ablaze, with the flames already reaching toward the post office, consuming on their way the one story building occupied by F. A. Greenfelder as a farm implement store.

It was plain that nothing could save either of these buildings, so great a start had the flames already obtained, and the thing now to be done was to save what could be saved of the contents and if possible the fire from spreading to the west and taking the remainder of the block. Pratt's building was so far gone that only a show case and some few other things, worth perhaps $75, could be gotten out; the post office was broken in and most, if not all, of the mail and other matter saved and the boxes removed. The upper story of this building was occupied by Justice Wood and Twp. Treasurer C. W. Hopkins, and in endeavoring to save the desk containing the township books and papers Mr. Hopkins and L. C. Gaylord were both pretty well scorched, the former quite severely.

The engine had been stationed at the cistern on the opposite side of the street and well manned, and was now throwing two streams onto the building, but in spite of the favorable west wind the many-tongued monster ate his way steadily westward, taking first the building occupied by Warren Lewis and family as a millinery store and residence. This furnished fuel for the roaring furnace only for a few minutes, and the next victim in order was the fine Gould building, a store building about 100 feet long, the first floor occupied by W. A. Eastwood as a grocery, and the second story by John Stevens as a residence. This building served to give the flames a new impetus and it now looked as if the entire block must go, excepting, perhaps, Walker's furniture store, but a large force had been at work for some minutes tearing out the building next west of Eastwood's grocery and so far succeeded in weakening it that when the west side of the grocery had fallen in they were able to pull it over into the ruins of its neighbor.

This made a slight break in the long row of frame buildings that occupied nearly the entire block, and by dint of unflinching courage and perseverance the progress in this direction was checked, and all, especially those occupying buildings in the block, began to breathe naturally again. During the whole time there had been but a very light wind, blowing from the southwest, which was most favorable for the saving of the rest of the block, but it served to greatly endanger A. A. Johnson's saloon, standing a short distance in the rear of the post office, and on whose safety depended also that of two or three dwellings just north of it. In the rear of the saloon and adjacent to it were some sheds or stables, reaching to within a few feet of the rear of Eastwood's store. With difficulty the attention of part of the people was directed to these buildings in time to barely save them from the reigning demon. While water was being thrown on the roof and sides of Johnson's saloon building the slipping of a ladder precipitated Mott Mead and Lester Burrows to the ground, from the top of a one story addition. Mott reaching the ground first and the ladder, and its other occupant, coming on top of him. The assistance which was quickly at hand was not needed, however, for by the merest luck neither of the boys were more than slightly bruised.

The property owners whose buildings so narrowly escaped destruction may thank the existence of the cistern from whose abundant supply of water the fire was prevented from doing more than double the damage that it did. And this is another reminder of the exposed condition of the range of wooden buildings on the south side of Broad St. which is owing to the foolish policy which resulted in the filling up of the cistern placed opposite it. The losses estimated are approximately as follows: B. E. Pratt, building and stock of boots and shoes, $5,000; P. Gould, building, $2,000; E. Woods, buildings, $600; Mrs. L. D. Snow, of Merrill, building, $300; H. J. Bentley, building, $600; F. A. Greenfelder, stock of farm implements, $1,000; John Stevens, household goods, $700; Warren Lewis, household goods, $300. Nearly all the post office equipments were saved. Total, $20,000. There was no insurance on any of the property, the insurance companies deeming it so hazardous that they all fought shy of it. All the buildings burned were two story frame structures except one, the agricultural implement store, which was one story.

F. H. Blakeslee succeeded in removing his stock of musical instruments and sewing machines and W. A. Eastwood his stock of groceries. The latter will move into the Chrysler building and there continue business. The post office will for the present be located in Evert's store.
